If the levy passes, the District can meet the operational and capital needs to maintain excellence.

If the levy fails in May, the District would need to consider district-wide cuts and reductions.

The need to secure additional operating dollars and funding for capital projects does not go away with failure; rather, the need is delayed and it worsens.

Indian Hill Middle School was constructed in the 1960s, and despite regular maintenance, structural issues have forced sections closed. Further, crews are in a constant state of repair to patch a flat roof that is the equivalent of three football fields in size.
